

LANCU37

Establish and maintain animals within their accommodation

Overview

This standard is about establishing and maintaining accommodation for animals for medical or surgical reasons including those who are contagious. Accommodation is that which is constructed or prepared specifically for animals.

This involves selecting and preparing the accommodation ready for use by animals, setting up suitable environmental conditions and introducing the animal to the accommodation.

This will also cover maintaining animal accommodation. This involves maintaining environmental conditions, carrying out cleaning and replacing any ancillary materials.
